As I said before, I could see only a short distance ahead on account of the fog. but I knew any obscuration of tho bright lines, any deviation from their straight course meant terrible danger, if not death, to my precious load of human lives. So I sat there with my hand on the throttle, and every nerve and musele strained to its utmost tension.

"I forgot to say that we were nearly an hour late leaving St. Louis, and I had orders to make up this lost time. Finally we struck a piece of road which I knew extended in a straight line for over ten miles. I felt relieved when we struck this part of the road and turning to the fireman, I shouted: Good track ahead, Tom-I'm going to let her out.' He nodded back at me and I pulled open the valve. I could feel the engine tremble with a new motion as she leaped forward like a bounded deer, and in another second it seemed rails. About half way down this stretch of straight road there was a station and a piece of side track for switch-off freight cars. Low Prices for Butter. Low Prices for Batter.

The New York Tribune in its market report explained why some butter is sold for such low prices. In speaking of butter it said: "Light colored goods are very hard to dispose of and several lots were thought well sold at 8 to 10 cants." If butter makers would get the top price, they should use the Improved Butter Color, made by Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt. It gives a pure dandellou color and never turns red, or rancid, but tends to improve and preserve the butter. and preserve the butter.
